Lionel Terry and the "Yellow Peril"

In 1905 an elderly Chinaman was shot by a young post-artist-philosopher whose aim was to draw attention to the 'Yellow Peril'.

His name was Lionel Terry. During the next 50 years he continued to draw public attention by his daring escapes from captivity, his writings and the efforts of his supporters to secure his release.

Some saw Terry as a madman, others as a prophet. In these times of planned "Asian Destiny" for New Zealand we can now see just who was right.

Early Life

Born in 1873, Kent, England, Terry received his early education from private tutors. He was sent to Merton College where he was described as an accomplished student who "could do anything."

After brief employment as a clerk at 17, with a view to joining his father's real estate company, he had not acquired a taste for business, so in 1892 he enlisted in the Royal Artillery. He then transferred to the Royal Horse Guards, in which he was described as "a good all-round soldier, and a staunch and faithful chum." By this time he was already recognized as an accomplished artist.

Jameson Raid

In 1895 Terry's father purchased his discharge, and he set out for South Africa. Here he joined the Mounted Police at Bulawayo and participated in the infamous Jameson Raid, the conspiratorial attempt of capitalist interest to overthrow the Boer Transvaal Republic in order to acquire the wealth of the territory. Not only was Terry in close contact with one of the Raid's instigators, Cecil Rhodes, but after the surrender of the expedition he also met, and developed great admiration for, Transvaal President Kruger.

Sir Lionel Phillips, the Johannesburg millionaire, and one of the four Raid leaders, wrote of Terry at this time as a "pleasant and peaceful person."

It was at this time that Terry's attitude toward British Imperialism underwent a radical change, Terry perceiving it as detrimental to the White race.

Explorer, Union organizer

After returning to England briefly, as a partner in the family firm, Terry left for the West Indies. Here he distinguished himself as an explorer, climbing Mount Pelée and exploring the interior of Dominica. He used his artistic skills to create the first map of the island's hinterland. For this service the government suggested striking a medal in his honour, a distinction which Terry declined, writing home that "I am not collecting such silly bawbles at present."

From Dominica he went to the USA and then on to Hawaii where he studied the multi-racial nature of the island.

Terry proceeded to British Columbia, where he became deeply concerned with the welfare of the British settlers and accepted a position as secretary of the Miners' Protection Union, which involved him in resisting the immigration policies of the Provincial Government.

Terry then set out for Australia.

Reaches New Zealand

After about four months in Australia as a gold miner, Terry reached New Zealand in 1901.

Terry tramped the countryside and studied the political and economic situation. His varied employment saw him as a draughtsman for the Lands and Survey Dept., a fruit grower in Auckland, a farm labourer, and a bush feller in Taihape where, according to a newspaper account, he would share his home with his lands and Survey, that Terry wrote and published his famous pamphlet, "The Shadow", which he would post in large numbers throughout the world.

Racial Nationalist

Advocating a consistent racial nationalist ideology and policy, Terry called for the immediate repatriation of all racial aliens, the abrogation of all treaties and alliances with alien nations, the complete independence of all British colonies, racial separation, and the transfer of all "race adulterers" to outlying islands under suitable control.

In a letter to Dr. Pomare, who held Cabinet responsibility for Maori affairs, Terry wrote: "There has never in the history of the world been a case of two distinct races living together in the same country without the deterioration and ultimate decay of one or the other."

He advocated that "the Maoris must be subject to their own laws and their own religion. They must be entirely self-contained and self-supporting in every conceivable particular and upon this, and this only, depends the life of the Maori race."

Thus Terry, the far-sighted White racist ideologue, advocated "Maori Sovereignty" some 80 years before it became the adopted cause of the left.

Although enjoying the friendship of a number of prominent citizens and politicians who shared his views on Chinese immigration, Terry was concerned that government delays on racial issues would continue unless the public's attention was focused on them by a dramatic event. Indeed men of the prominence of Seddon and Ward were concerned for the preservation of the White race, but were met with opposition from the British Colonial Office in attempts at restricting Chinese immigration. In 1905 Terry set out from Auckland to Wellington. continued on p 7

How may I approach you soldiers of the White tribe? Are there any among you that fail to realize the State, the Establishment, the Zionists, the whatever, have declared war on the unengulfed ones? Are we to be so totally passively passive as to not understand the eternal gauntlet that has been thrown at our feet? Is there anyone out there that still clings to the conservative mantle of patching up the hull of a rotted ship of state; for that matter, has any ship of state at any time been any other?

Now we are being forced to understand what should have been plain as early as the turn of the century. The state has grown bloated in its self satisfaction and all that is left is to prick its balloon-like body.

The grave error that has plagued White yeomanry has been the feeling of paternalism by an appreciative elitist class. A strata of the White race committed to White survival, or so they would have had you believe. If that were the case why fratricidal Civil War, WWI, WWII, not to count all the no-win brushfire wars to keep the world safe for wealth, inc?

Will you and I ever awake, fool? Your war as a White man and woman is not horizontal right/left, it is vertical. Many of the finest, in fact the finest, White racist doers were and are socialists, whether you call them Social Nationalist, Social Tribalist or National Socialists. I find the Capitalists only become racists when it is to their advantage of elitism. Today we see several White revolutionaries incarcerated in prisons across the nation. I have not seen one conservative attorney come to their aid. I have heard condemnation from all "respectable" quarters (oolah).

Right wing is a dead issue in this country. The left wing is equally a dead corpse that has not been laid to rest.

We are territorialists, tribalists, regionalists. Jews never relied on borders to advance or protect their interests. That, of course, is not new. Neither did our ancient war lords and chieftains, who would have spit in the eye of anyone who drew a line around them. We are in a state of war. It makes no difference whether you are a P.O.W. in the bowels of the system's dungeons or a well entrenched agent of our cause in the inner workings of the system.

I personally do not believe there is any longer any redeeming value to the system as it is now constituted. This must mean our alliances must be pragmatic, but sincere. Our friends must be those that are territorialists and racial separatists. We must extend a hand of friendship to all those who struggle for self determination, racial, ethnic and cultural. There can be no oppression in separation, since the act of separation does not hold a desire to exploit or oppress. At this moment we are of the stateless ones. We are a people without a land mass. We are in no better shape than the American Indian, the Black, the Puerto Rican, etc.

It is NOW time for war. In the words of Charles Lindbergh "Our bond with Europe is a bond of race" and so it must be with Australia, New Zealand, South Africa, European Russia, etc. It is admittedly impossible for you and I to directly meddle in the affairs of other territorialists. We must fight where we stand, by state, by region, by county or by village or block. But fight we must against an unrelenting foe. Some would label our struggle anarchy, but isn't that what we have now? Anarchy against the natural laws. Artificial perversion of nature's time tested methods?

All systems present today in the world are in opposition to the natural order. Almost all churches attempt to distort what is true by eons of experience. Our world is in the clutches of Talmudic quackery on the grandest scale fostered by the mega robber barons who seal class division with super glue, attempting to hold off natural leadership ascendancies.

Yes my friend, what we face is not silly conservative or liberal economic babble, but a world-wide total revolution in way and means of living and surviving in the 21st Century. This revolution has been a long time coming. Finally, however, we may see a light at the end of the tunnel and that light is the destruction of economic determinism, through racial, ethnic and cultural determinism.

To that I say - viva revolution.

Press doctors pictures

Recently your paper ran a picture with the caption indicating that "Neo Nazis" were beaten in Sweden by a crowd. Why a large photo of such a questionable scene is circulated in a regional paper in Southern California would be a mystery, if not for understanding clever propaganda techniques.

Today almost anyone who is not enamored with the present state of one's government and who is not a Marxist is summarily labeled a "Neo-Nazi." This is, of course, the final curse. Once that word is applied the discussion is closed. Color these wicked souls bad and their opponents the purveyors of all good.

The facts behind the picture are an outgrowth of an ancient custom in Sweden of honoring their 17th century King Charles XII. Swedish Nationalists parade each year to a monument of the king to pay respect.

As in this country, Marxists, homosexuals, Zionists, etc. try to break up the ceremonies, resulting in a street fight. Swedish Nationalists are trying to salvage their country from the rot and perversion exported from our great demo-crazy land.

Evidently the establishment press feels Americans are so stupid they can doctor any picture to fit their program, and people won't question it. They are probably right.

6,250,613,110 Border Crossings

Between 1941 and 1980, INS records show that there were 6,250,613,110 crossings of the U.S. border by non-immigrant visitors, citizens, and permanent resident aliens. That's SIX BILLION, two hundred fifty million persons. This number does not include border crossings by illegal aliens, a figure which probably exceeds two million a year (one million illegal alien border crossers are now caught every year; at least that many crossings remain undetected by the U.S. Border Patrol). Every crossing of the U.S. border represents a possible immigration or customs violation and all crossings are screened by the U.S. Customs and U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Services. The increase in border crossings from 39 million in 1941 to nearly 290 million in 1981 represents a tremendous increase in workload for the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Race is the real issue

EDITOR:

Alexander Humboldt, American historian, over 100 years ago stated that "the United States would absorb Mexico and fall as a great nation." At present Mr. Humboldt's view is being reaffirmed with each passing hour.

More recently Mr. Colby, ex-C.I.A. chief, stated that the threat from Mexico and other Latin populations is more of a threat than the U.S.S.R. These are but a few wise words that have been spoken by well-known white men over the years.

I have lived in Fallbrook more than 15 years. During that time I have seen a small, controlled fruit processing business escalate from family-owned and run (for a living) into a speculator tax-dodge mess. Monied interests and their real estate speculating friends (let's not forget the local fishwrap known as the Enterprise) began to really move in about 1970. We saw the area wildly overplanted in fruit that even Angie Dickinson has a hard time making profitable.

Of course, to pick and maintain this money-losing crop we need to create a new plantation system. Soon reasonable rental housing began to disappear. Seniors and other workers were gradually driven out. Grove managers began to buy up lower cost rental units and, presto, three families of Mexicans in one house is much more profitable than one. Remember never let morality or even good future sense stand in the way of profits.

Less and less white kids are on the block thanks to abortion and suicidal white tendencies to crave their goodies now and, to hell with the future. Suddenly Professor Twiddlebrain, Minister of Education, enters stage left or right, depending on your view. A concentration of 43 percent Mexicans in one school may begin to affect real estate sales. Solution — let's spread them around so they won't be so obvious for a while. Short-term solution? Ah, yes, but after all that's all my Ph.D. allows me.

Meetings are held and, as usual, women dominate the gathering, an area that most psychologically castrated men have long given over, so the men are free to engorge themselves on Monday night football.

There is much beating of the breast about how this is now a racial issue. Well, you can only have it two ways — it's either racial or economic. The graduates of Brainwash University are on their feet bleating about the equality of man as the banker snickers in the rear.

The preacher, following the banker's cue, gives testimony to the great moral issue we face as the real estate speculator nervously applauds.

Of course, the issue is race. Whites who have seen the Los Angeles schools crumble and have learned that expensive lesson, meekly battling whites, who are racists of course, but they have joined the growing ranks of white minority-oriented racists, spurning their own kind.

In about five years at the outside, based upon present limp-wristed resistance, would the last white, other than the plantation owners, turn out the lights and bring the flag? 4-27-84

W.A.R. an arm of WHITE AMERICAN POLITICAL ASSOC.

Larry Bird, an outstanding player for the Boston Celtics, an outstanding basketball team, played against the unbeaten 76'ers, beating them 130-119 on November 9, 1984. Bird scored 42 points, the sixth time in his career that he went over 40 points. Julius Erving was held by Bird to six points. Apparently, he did not like it. Erving began shoving Bird to the floor at opportune moments in the third period. They were ejected in the third period for fighting. Had Bird played the rest of the third and the fourth periods, he may have set a scoring record. But Larry had a couple of things against him. With him in, the 76'ers were sure to lose. With him in, a White man would have become the greatest basketball player of all time. Not only is Bird White, he has blond hair and blue eyes, very aggravating. An obvious Nazi. Blacks don't like to give such an obvious Nazi a chance to prove their superiority. Basketball is a black sport; no Nazis allowed.

The fight? Oh, yes! Quite a fight! One Black guy put Larry in a choke hold, another Black guy grabbed his right arm, and another Black guy grabbed his left arm. Only for a second, though. Just long enough for Erving to land three quick jabs to Bird's face before he was thrown to the floor again. Bird was in a fight; he had to be ejected. It was a good thing, too. These damn Nazis just can't go around playing basketball. Basketball is a "Black Sport".

I read an article in the paper the next day. It said that Bird had thrown a wild punch and had started the fight. He didn't. I saw the film clip four times. Erving had pushed Bird with his back to him. Bird's arm came up; he was then in a choke hold, both arms held and caught three in the face.

The American public is caught up with the fascination of black superiority in sports - an obvious can't account for their superiority (laugh-laugh). It must be genetic (laugh-laugh). No one would disagree with you (laugh-laugh). It's obvious! They're black, therefore, they are superior in sports. Once they got the opportunity to shine, they shone through!

Blacks are genetically superior to the Jew, the Chinese, Whites, you name it, in sports. Of course, mentally, they are not the equal of anyone, genetically speaking. But they're oppressed, saddened, meek, good-natured, but discriminated against beyond all pale of mental redemption (laugh-laugh). Their ability to shine academically is repressed by the lack of opportunity, the vicious racism of White society, and the social discrimination which taxes their mental capacity to rise up and be counted as equals (laugh-laugh). The IQ tests are slanted and discriminatory, the White cultural inheritance supplies greater advantages to White children. Now, don't throw a kink in all this by mentioning the Orientals who do so well in school. The Jews haven't figured that out, yet, but they're working on it. And they'll let you know just as soon as there's money in it.

Since it's an accepted fact (laugh-laugh) that Blacks are genetically superior to Whites in sports, and since you'd better believe they're mentally equal to Whites - or you're a Nazi, then we must conclude that Blacks are a superior race to all other races.

Since we find so many pre-human bones in Africa, Blacks must be the original Adam from whom we are all descended and are therefore superior. We can tell from these 10 million year old bones that the pre-humans in Africa must have had black skin, therefore we are descended from monkeys with black skin (laugh-laugh). The scientists haven't said how they know they had black skin, or how they know that they're our direct ancestors, but, well, hell, they found them in Africa; the damn things just had to be Black, and therefore they had to be our ancestors. I mean, it's just obvious; they're from Africa.

Everybody knows that man developed in Africa. Now don't give me any lip, damn it. Those pre-humans had black skin and they're our ancestors. If you don't like it, go find your own bones. The Chinese people said that they found pre-human bones in China that are 18 million years old. But, come on, are you going to listen to the Chinese? You know they're always lying.

Of course, all that was just to be farcical. Anybody that would want to prove that Blacks are the superior race or the original race must be Black (or Jewish).

Few people have stopped to wonder why the majority of the world class White athlete no longer comes from America. Why does America's Black Olympic Basketball team always lose to the Russians? Why, the Russians are professionals, of course, the only possible explanation. Why does a Chinaman hold the world's record in the high jump followed closely on the heels by the European and White American Athlete? Why are the best gymnasts always White Americans and Orientals? Why are Winter Olympians all White? Why are the best long distance runners always White, the best swimmers, all White, the best pole vaulter, shot-putters, discus, javelin throwers, all White? Why is the best weight lifter White? How absurd that John Riggins would set a rushing record in the Super-Bowl in 1981, a White man. Rushers are supposed to be Black. How could a world class boxer, Jerry Coetzee come from such a tiny racist country, South Africa, but few White contenders from America?

It's curious, indeed, why it's such a big thrill to beat the White man at his own sport. It should be obvious that White Supremacy in obvious sports is due to "genetically superior" Black would do better if he could only rise up against his White Oppressors (laugh-laugh). But the Black is oppressed! He's only allowed to run short sprints in track and field and is kept out of other sports because the Black is stereotyped after all those years of chasing rabbits in the jungle. The White man only lets him play football and basketball, the money sports, because of a plot to oppress and defile his Black image. Blackie resents that Quarterbacks are White. He goes crazy with jealousy because it just shouldn't be that way.

The Black basketball team, the 76'ers, were crazy with jealousy when they attacked Larry Bird - an obvious Nazi! No White man is going to outplay Blackie. Basketball is a black sport! Larry Bird, therefore, must have cheated and had to be properly punished by four black guys. That damn Nazi getting 42 points and Erving only getting six! Whitey had to be taught a lesson; a painful, black lesson. And it had to be covered up in the news.

This scenario, (Four Black athletes attack one White athlete), is not uncommon in integrated schools as well as in professional sports. Instantly, Blacks know that they have one chance to make it big, and that's in sports, not academics. Their way of "going for it" is all out. Locker room harassment of White athletes is part of the game. Eliminate the competition and that black athlete has a much better chance. Occasionally their attitude spills over on the court or on the field. If they win, they're superior. If they lose, they're discriminated against. The locker rooms are where our White athletes are disappearing in America - not the playing field. Locker room black justice is demoralizing. "Don't even look like you're going to say Nigger, Whitey!"

How can the Seattle Sonics have three (out of five) White guys on the starting line-up and be one of the best teams in the nation? It just doesn't make any black sense.

I am pro-White. When it comes to non-Whites wanting more and more and never satisfied with what they get, I mine no words in my outspokenness.

Here in San Diego where I live, there is a rag called the San Diego Union. Today it says that "For the first time, White students in the San Diego Unified School District are outnumbered by Hispanic, Black, Asian and American Indian students." And there are more minority students among younger children in the elementary schools, some 55 percent. The low White birth-rates and the so-called "White flight" to the suburbs are speedily being replaced by rapid rise in migration, both legal and illegal, and all carry the very reproductive seed that will destroy the White Race.

San Diego is not an isolated case. A 1980 census shows that "minority" group members now make up a majority in 25 of the largest cities in the United States. "Minorities" in Los Angeles make up 52 percent of the population; Chicago, 57 percent are "minority" groups; Detroit is 67 percent "minority." The report indicates that "the percentage of 'minority' population has increased in almost every American city since 1970."

According to the Federal Bureau of Labor Statistics the White male worker is now relegated to 49 percent of the work force. Increasingly, Whites are definitely on the decline and non-Whites are taking over by sheer numbers.

I am further angered by the establishment of an educational "forum" designed to see "what can be done for Black children." This, of course, is formed and headed by none other than a White man holding the highest position in California's educational system, Bill Monig. He states that "The purpose of the group (forum) is to make sure that specific ethnic groups in the state are not missing the boat." This students. Just as there were Indian traitors during the conquest of the New World, so too, today there are traitors-White traitors-in high positions who will accept 30 pieces of silver to sell out the White Race down the tube.

Not surprisingly we find traitors among the Blacks, too. Reverend, reprehensible, reptile Jesse Jackson is always hollering for more welfare for Blacks. Has anyone ever heard him, or anyone else for that matter, say one word about the millions of illegitimate Black babies being reared at taxpayers' expense? Reports show that 67 percent of Black children are illegitimate. No wonder our schools are overrun by bastard brats that should have never been born! These Blacks and other non-White promiscuous sex perverts are responsible for filling the land with the unwanted and they should be castrated without pity. Paying more money to support illegitimate Blacks or others simply encourages more and more such births and inflation increases the cost of doing so.

Not only do we support this pernicious sex mess in our midst, we fly hundreds of thousands of tons of food to alleviate hunger in Ethiopia. Famine and drought are nothing new to Africa. They are an act of nature. Recently CBS reported the tragedy of people dying in the streets. One Black idiot had two wives and 13 children. He's a Muslim, of course. Muslims may have as many as four wives. But you never hear of Allah coming down from heaven to feed the starving children. Instead of being a comfort, religion is a curse!

In today's paper (11-17-84) the Southern Baptist Convention claims they have 160 "predominantly Black congregations in California," and the largest growth "is in the Asian communities." The convention further claims they have "1,312 multi-ethnic and multi-racial congregations." California has a population of 23 million, the largest in the nation.

Churches take pleasure in giving an account of their racially-mixed congregations, but they never give an account of the number of Whites they have. Asking the churches to give an account of Whites is like asking the Mafia to give an account of crime. It is a bitter pill to take, but the mission must be made that the concept of separation of state and church that was a founding principle of our nation no longer exists as a legal reality and the same holds true for races. The events, both judicial and legislative of the past few years have demonstrated beyond a shadow of a doubt that the nation is now a functioning theocracy with its own "state religion". Here is where the White Race is losing the battle. The church, allied with judicial power, will lead the White Race to ethnocide. That is exactly what the Catholic Church did in the year 325 A.D. when she allied herself with the corrupt murderer, Constantine. Then Rome fell!

Perhaps Black repatriation is an idea whose time will come again. In the last 200 years several attempts have been made for emigration of free Negroes from America to Africa. A freed Black named Oaul Kofi founded such a society. Lincoln suggested something similar; another was Marcus Garvey who sponsored the return of Blacks to Africa in 1913.

In our own time there is an organization called ACS (American Colonization Society). It is "dedicated to the voluntary migration of African-American people to their motherland." A bill was once introduced to the 92nd Congress in March of 1971 by the then Rep. Robert N.C. Nix (D. Pa.). It never got far. Perhaps such a bill should again take root in the minds of the people who should be educated to that end.

Israel under American guns and have, since 1948, sucked 53 billion dollars from the U.S. and they are broke today. Where was their Jehovah why not a country for the Blacks? There's plenty of room in Africa. Blacks should heed the Bible verse Isaiah 13:14: "Let every man turn to his own people, and flee, everyone, into his own land." And for the Muslim the Koran (4:97): "And whoever emigrated from his country in the cause of Allah will find in the earth an abundant place of refuge and plenty." Congress would do well to set aside about 80 billion dollars to repatriate Blacks. This would diminish the Black nuisance hanging on the White man's wallet: unemployment, prisons, schools, drug addicts, hospitals, etc. and would alleviate many of the U.S. problems. We have some 5 to 10 thousand White families that flee this country each year, but we never hear about them or why.

Unfortunately, when Blacks arrived in this country, they were in chains. But if they were to return to Africa they would be infinitely better off than when they came. They'd have a Bible, a language, laws, doctors, educators, engineers, actors, etc. All they'd need: 80 billion and one generation to settle down.

At the present time Americans are at the peak of a powerful race-mixing movement. Whites pay less attention to this menacing threat than they do to cars, baseball and TV quiz shows, all of which are sand thrown into their eyes. It is getting so that it is a bad form to have a healthy emphasis on the well-being of one's race. Japanese, Chinese, and many jungle tribes have high racial loyalties. White Americans have been suckered in for the rest of the cultural - suicide foisted on them by the "Mix-master" Establishment.

The great White Race will die out if people threatened with extinction do not awaken. Recently Reagan's wife smiled while sitting on the lap of a Mohawk-haired bejeweled Afro-American. When she kissed his Black bald head, if you think this was not propaganda for inter-racial loving, then you can believe that a cow gives whiskey.

Politics of Race Mixers

During the Vietnam War many children were born of mixed-race parentage, Black/Vietnamese, White/Vietnamese and Jew/Vietnamese. After the war, the fathers returned to the States leaving their children behind.

Most of the mixed-race children wound up in orphanages, unwanted by their American fathers or their Vietnamese mothers. You would think their mothers would want them, but having the mixed-race kids around betrayed their close association with American servicemen and Vietnamese with that kind of link faced additional hardships. Those who had "kissed-up" to the Americans, in the eyes of the Communists, had prolonged the war. Some were even killed.

What had escaped the minds of our not-so-bright politicians (during that time) was that the Vietnamese have always identified themselves as a people. They have a cultural heritage that goes way back. The Vietnamese are united by a language, a traditional territory, and by their racehood.

Westerners tend to think of all Orientals as being the same race, but Orientals do not. A skirmish between the Chinese and Vietnamese after the war was viewed by the Chinese rulers as being a race war.

If the Vietnamese/Chinese situation can be viewed as racial by those parties, certainly the reports that Hanoi was playing on the racial loyalty of the Vietnamese people when waging war against the "American Dogs" are reasonably credible.

The Americans, by virtue of their alien racial mix, would be racial invaders, the perverted "destroyers by seduction", an old Oriental trick so obvious to them by virtue of their historic practice of such.

The inter-racial children in such an atmosphere would naturally be threatening. They would be a constant reminder to the "pure people" that racial destruction and cultural absorption was just around the corner.

Contemporary Americans don't think much about the consequences of race and its meaning to culture. They're more attuned to the effect of "religion on culture" than anything else. So tuned in are they, that racial destruction for the sake of perpetuating the religion is acceptable. If their religion says that race doesn't matter, they allow themselves to get sucked in by the total nonsense of it all. They can't see that race is the greatest culture bearer, and not religion. When they think of the Vietnamese, they're vaguely aware of Vietnamese racism and think it's just terrible, but they won't admit that they lost a war over race because they didn't perceive themselves as destroyers of the Vietnamese culture through intermarriage and miscegenation, even though many a lowly idiot can tell you that sex happens, even in war. Race apparently made a great deal of difference to the Vietnamese. No more of those "American Dogs" taking their women; they'd had enough.

Now, the Vietnamese are very happy to get rid of their half-breed children. They're a reminder of the defilement of the Vietnamese women by American servicemen. They're shipping them to America as fast as this government will take them. They're pleased to purge themselves of the impurity that mongrel children will bring to the Vietnamese Race should they remain in Vietnam, reach maturity, and breed. Another way in which their mongrels would affect them would be in the unnatural loyalty that many of the mixed-race children would have for foreigners, a No-No in a Racist Nation.

The Vietnamese keep their half-breeds in separate orphanages. They're not good enough to mix with "pure" kids. They're very public with their racial feelings and don't think it's really a big deal. You could call the Vietnamese government "Racist Pigs" all day long. They would say, "Thank you. And it only took you White Dogs 9 years to figure it out."

Vietnamese Kids in America have quite a difficult time adjusting to American schools. This system in America doesn't recognize them in the same way as they recognize themselves. On the forms they fill out they have one box to check - "Oriental". They feel like we're trying to lump them in with all the Asian trash that comes over here. We still won't think of them as a people and give them recognition as a race. That bothers the kids, so they put on a show. They bother all the other kids in violent ways, but a White kid can only see slanty eyes and straight Black hair like all the "other" Orientals. They know they got ripped off by a bunch of White, cowardly politicians who promised them victory and a nation, but all they got was a one-way ticket out of their own country. Had American politicians considered the "Race" factor to begin with, we never would have gotten into the war. But at that time, politicians were riding a popular wave of anti-racism. Nobody was supposed to be thinking about racial difference. It was naughty. If the Vietnamese identified themselves as a people - Tough Luck. Americans had a better way - Race-mixing. Love 'em and leave 'em. And that's exactly what America did.

The "Politics of Race-Mixers" have forgotten the primal meaning of war. The conquest of an enemy results in children of inter-racial stock, if the enemies are racially distinct. What kind of idiot would deny that?

It should be obvious to all of us in America that our leaders think of themselves as some sort of "genetic alchemists" who ultimately are going to mix us all down into some sort of new master race. That is a good reason why we should get rid of them, before they succeed in getting rid of us - permanently.

Mono Racism

If you've never heard that word before, it's because I just made it up. I needed a word to describe a new belief that inter-racial marriage between all the races will create a superior race of man, will return mankind to a race of the original man, and that this superior race will have the genetic capacity to rule the world. Monoracism has made only slight appearances in children's movies. Once in a while, a man will appear from the future to state that all the races had melted into one (in the future). (He fails to mention how this magic trick is pulled off). As a result of race-melting, the world, in the future, lives in peace and harmony since there are no racial divisions. Thereby there is no longer the stimulus for war. This, of course, has the hidden implication that the very existence of different races is the only cause for war. So, melting the races will, therefore, eliminate war.

All of that implies that melting the races would eliminate greed and corruption, and that no one man would be genetically superior to another as the direct result of race-mixing, and that melting the races would eliminate rape, perversion, all crime, jealousy, divergent religions, adultery, murder, disease, famine, drought, earthquakes, and a whole host of other problems which tend to polarize one people from another due to their different locales and cultural adaptations.

I also found it curious that the mono-race man of the future is always depicted as a White man. The producers of the movies fail to mention how, when you melt all the races, the result is White?

Aside from the children's movies, you always notice that in the mixed-race TV commercials, they always show a little black boy standing next to a little blonde girl, smiling at each other, dancing side by side. To do otherwise in a mixed-race commercial would be racist. Never a Chinese boy and a little Black girl, always a Black boy and a little White blonde girl.

I've noticed how in the last twenty years blondes have become targets of various absurdities; how in the high schools, the history teachers tell of Hitler's secret plan to populate Germany with blondes. Well, so what! So Hitler liked blondes. Big Deal! So do Negroes, Jews, and of course White boys. White boys come last. They shouldn't have access to the blonde girls because they might have White children - very naughty - that's Nazi stuff. So, should it be any wonder why the Jews' media wants the American public to get used to that Black boy and little blonde girl standing next to each other - dancing - to do otherwise would be racist.

I wonder why you don't see more commercials with little Jewish girls dancing with negroes. Why, you could put a little Star of David around her neck so everyone would know. If mono-racism is to be properly promoted, Jewish producers should begin using their own children to set a good example for us goyim. After all, Israelis set such a good example by getting along so well with their darker Arab neighbors. Their shining light could be the one we follow!

Frankly, though, I think mono-racism is revenge against the White man, and that the TV commercials are mono-racist propaganda to carry out a small part of a plan to subvert White ethnic values - some of which are that Whites should marry Whites, be raised with Whites, and proud of it. How absurd that it even needs to be said! ■

Chinese Communism and Chinese Jews

EXCERPTS FROM "POLITICAL SECRETS", A WELL DOCUMENTED SERIES BY ITS VAN BAKONY

The Jewish leader Israel Joseph Benjamin II, Chacham of Israel, after his visit to China at the middle of last century, says in his report on Chinese clandestine Judaism presented to the western Jewish leaders, that in one epoch the Chinese Jews mixed themselves with the population of the mongolic race through mixed marriages: "They keep their faith with the characteristic tenacity distinguishing the Jews, they even now do not marry but women of their same religion"... They are completely converted into Chinese by their language, dressing, customs, and habits, they also have Chinese names... It is said that Jews came to China from the north-western part of India by about the third century after Christ; they first remained secretly in Ning-hia, Hantcheou and Peking, and later became established in Kai-fung-foo." A dangerous fifth column of secret Jews had entered China, who as a result of their total adaptation through the centuries, to the racial and social characteristics of the Chinese people are now dangerously confounded and diluted in the population of that country. It should be noted that although the Jews of the former celestial Empire are considered among the most mixed with the indigenous race, since the last century they have kept the rigid custom of marrying only among themselves.

The historian of the Chinese Jews, Alexander Wyllie, in his valuable book called INVESTIGATIONS ON THE EXISTENCE OF JEWS IN CHINA, SINCE THE MOST ANCIENT TIMES TO THESE DAYS, notes that the existence of the Jews was hidden for the majority, but that, nevertheless, "some accidental observations in Marco Polo's trips, show that Jews were suffience in China and Tartaria", and it is natural that a clandestine Judaism as secret as the one functioning in China for the last eighteen hundred years, was not easy for Marco Polo to identify, but the clandestine Jews who themselves know the problem very well, can identify its existence better than anyone else, through Marco Polo's reports.

S. M. Perlmann, the Jewish historian, in his HISTORY OF THE JEWS IN CHINA, London, 1913, also tells of the existence of Chinese Jews in the army and of Mandarins, one of whom, called Chao-Yng Cheng, commanded a section of the army and rebuilt the city of Kai-fung-foo. Jewish historians agree in ascribing great military talents to the Chinese Tartaric and Mongolian Jews, and this may explain their infiltration into the Chinese communist Army.

The distinguished historian confesses something that is well known, but which coming from a famous Jewish historian has greater probatory value: that it is not possible in most cases to distinguish the Chinese clandestine Jews—because of their Chinese names and last names, their Chinese racial type and customs—from other Chinese. Although they appear to be a part of the Chinese people, in fact they belong to a foreign nation and people—to the Jewish nation. In other words, they represent an infiltration of the Israeli nation and Israeli imperialism into the heart of the Chinese nation.

It is very interesting to note another statement by this Jewish historian, in reference to those Chinese Jews who did not hide their identity: "Before ending, I must add to be fair with this old and cultured Chinese nation, that Jews in China have never had to complain about intolerance; they were never under exceptional laws; they were never persecuted or despised because of their religion. They always enjoyed the same rights as the Chinese people."

This Jewish confession is of utmost importance. Jews say that the slaughters, persecutions and expulsion of Jews from different countries of Christian Europe and the Islamic world, as an alternative to their conversion either to Christianity or to the Islam, forced the Jews both from the European nations and the Mohammedan world to falsely convert themselves to Islam or to Christianity to escape persecution, slaughters or expulsion and to remain in the country in which they were living. Nevertheless, if this were the only explanation from these pretended conversions and for the decision of the clandestine Jews to hide their Jewish identity, how can it be explained that in China—where the famous Jewish historian S. M. Perlmann confesses that Jews have never been persecuted, and readily denies any case of intolerance—the phenomenon of clandestine Judaism has existed for many centuries up until our days, and Jews hide their identity to appear as part of the Chinese people? This and other similar cases are proof that while it is true that in many cases Jews have been compelled to sink into clandestinity to escape persecution, expulsion or death; in the majority of cases it is evident that they have chosen this path as a political strategy to enable them to infiltrate the society of the country in which they live in order to monopolize the leading positions and to bring the host country under their control. In China, as in other countries of the world, clandestine Jews—as authorized sources confess—obtained high positions as Mandarins, Magistrates and Chiefs of the Chinese Army.

The Jewish leader, Israel Joseph Benjamin II, writing at the end of the last century, describes the situation of the Tartaric Jews living in Siberia, stating that he was informed that "they settled in the Great Tartaria, where they live in freedom leaders were equally chosen among the Jews and the Tartars, and both of them shared the perils of war, but the Jews did not marry the Tartars and strictly adhered their own religious cult.

The Tartaric Jews have a Tartaric type that enables them to live unidentified among the population, as in the case of the Chinese, Hindi and Negro Jews, etc. But at least since the last century, they practiced racial discrimination against their cordial and kind hosts, refusing to marry them. On the other hand, it is worthwhile to notice that the cordial reception given to them by the Tartars, and the freedom which the Tartars gave them, was repaid by the SOVIET JEWS WITH GREAT SLAUGHTERS OF THE UNFORTUNATE TARTARS AND THE SUBJUGATION OF THE REST OF THEM TO COMMUNIST SLAVERY. THIS IS ANOTHER PROOF OF JEWISH INGRATITUDE TO THOSE WHO OFFER THEM FRIENDSHIP!

The Jewish historian, S. M. Perlmann, mentions that one of the Tartaric tribes adopted Jewish kings from a group of immigrants coming from Media and Persia, and also states that these immigrant Jews turned themselves into ferocious nomads and great warriors in Tartaria. These Tartaric Jews are at present the bulldogs of the Soviet Jewish regime in Siberia, and it is well known that there are many Jewish-Tartaric officers in the Red Army, for the Tartaric and Chinese Jews differ from those of other nations in possessing great military talents.

In addition to the communities of clandestine Jews spread throughout China, already referred to, there is another Jewish community in the city of Kai-Fung-Foo, former capital of Honan Province, which has been operating in a more or less public way for several centuries; early references to this group being made by Jesuit Missionaries, particularly Father Matteo Ricci, in reports sent to Europe in the XVII Century.

Jewish encyclopedias and other books produced by the Jews for Gentiles (any people not Jewish) provide much information on Judaism in respect of

Final Chapter Remember Kathy Ainsworth

The following day Scarbrough and FBI agents Watts and Jack Rucker met with Botnick, who, according to a Scarbrough memo, told them a group of interested citizens had arranged to fly $25,000 in $20 bills to Meridian.

"Met with our intermediary and advised him that other negotiations were being made and if they did not 'come around' quickly, they would lose the money and any leniency that could be offered by the court for state's evidence," Scarbrough wrote in the memo. "I told him that Raymond Roberts was dead and the only thing that would save his life would be to join forces with us and turn full state's evidence."

On the night of June 11 Scarbrough, FBI agents Watts and Rucker, the intermediary and the Roberts brothers held the first of a series of meetings in a house trailer at Scarbrough's farm in Vinville, about 10 miles from Meridian.

During these meetings, the FBI agents participated in all negotiations for information and in all payments to the Roberts brothers, according to Scarbrough.

Scarbrough said he and the agents took a briefcase crammed with $25,000 in $20 bills to the June 11 meeting and "scattered it around" so that it would look like the full $79,000.

Scarbrough said the informants were given $1,000 as "good faith" money, but that in the beginning they provided little information. Scarbrough got a handwritten receipt for the payment which reads: "June 12, 1968, received this date from Luke Scarbrough the sum of $1,000 for services rendered." It was signed "Bobby Komoroski," a pseudonym for Alton Wayne Roberts.

On June 2 Scarbrough filed a memo quoting the intermediary as saying he was going to try to get the informants to testify for $150,000.

However, the Roberts brothers refused. Moreover, the FBI expressed doubt that any terrorists could be convicted on paid testimony, according to Scarbrough.

The next day one of the informants met with Hawkins who "showed informant two houses that had been shot into and a house with a sign stating 'peace' on it where they intended to commit a No. 4 (Klan code for a murder). White people and colored people live in this house."

On June 18 Scarbrough reported that the informants had met with Hawkins "to plan a 'No. 4' in Meridian in the near future." "Informants stated that if we would give them full immunity they would tell us who is responsible for all the church bombings," Scarbrough reported. "Informants wanted a written commitment concerning immunity which was given to them and signed by myself."

Scarbrough later said, "I'd have signed anything to have caught Tarrants. 'Cause he wasn't worth a damn anyway. They had me signing all kinds of crap, but who in the hell can they show it to?"

The receipt for the second payment read: "June 18, 1968, received this date from Luke Scarbrough the sum of $850 for services rendered." It was signed Al Rose, a pseudonym for Raymond Roberts.

On June 20 the informants called Scarbrough and said they had contacted Hawkins and that the home of Meyer Davidson had been selected as a bombing target for the next week. Davidson had been a leader in raising the reward.

The next day Scarbrough wrote, "After a lengthy session informants stated that they want $10,000 each this date, I promised them we would talk to the people involved and see if we could arrange it and turn the money over to the intermediary."

Now the FBI and the Meridian police were holding daily strategy sessions, making plans for evacuation of the Davidson family, for a stakeout of the Davidson home and for a demolition team to be on hand to disarm the bomb.

The informants reported that Hawkins had said he planned to use 28 sticks of dynamite with a timing device and place the bomb in the carport of the Davidson home. It would be placed at about 11:30 p.m. and would be timed to explode at 4:30 a.m.

The FBI, working through the Office of Naval Intelligence, arranged to have a demolition team come to Meridian. The team arrived there on June 23.

Two days later the informants reported the bombing was scheduled for Thursday, June 27. The FBI and Meridian police stake out the Davidson home that night, but nothing happened.

The next day Scarbrough reported: "Tarrants and Hawkins came to Meridian and picked up and stated that the reason they did not pull the job was because they have been pressed for time and they had to get some money. They stated that they are going to Alabama to pull a job. (Tarrants and Hawkins) asked the informer why he was in such a hurry for this job in Meridian and he stated that he is going to be indicted by the grand jury on Monday and they said they would pull the job before Monday and it will probably be Sunday night." (In arranging the bombing attempt, Raymond Roberts mentioned being under pressure because of the violence in the area, according to Scarbrough, and told Hawkins he needed him to carry out the bombing to get the "heat" off himself.)

On Saturday night, June 29, 12 Meridian policemen dressed in black waited in the darkness for the terrorists' arrival. Also stationed at strategic points in the general area for observational purposes, not for participating in an arrest or gun battle - were eight to 10 FBI agents.

About midnight, Tarrants and Kathy Ainsworth picked up Raymond Roberts and drove by the Davidson home for a final check-out then let Roberts out at a night club so he would have an alibi. Roberts obviously was surprised to see the Ainsworth woman instead of Hawkins and, when Tarrants let him out at the night club, he quickly called the police at a special telephone installed in a house near the Davidson home.

Hawkins apparently decided against participating in the bombing attempt because he felt he was under close FBI and police surveillance, and Tarrants decided to take along Mrs. Ainsworth instead. She was a woman who many people later described as a dedicated school teacher, well liked by students and their parents - apparently a Jekyll-and-hyde personality - a teacher by day, a terrorist by night.

By the time Roberts notified the lawmen that a woman was in the car the plan was so far in motion Scarbrough said, that the decision was made to go ahead. At that time he said, neither the police nor the FBI knew anything about Mrs. Ainsworth background.

Tarrants drove up and parked near the short driveway of the Davidson home about 12:55 a.m., got out and walked toward the driveway. With him he carried a bomb made of 29 sticks of dynamite.

What happened next is a matter of dispute between the police and Tarrants. Tarrants claims he was fired upon without warning.

Detectives L.A. Willoughby and Ralph McNair, testifying at Tarrants' trial in November, 1968, said Tarrants got out of the car, a pistol in one hand, dynamite in the other, and walked to the driveway where he put down the bomb. They said that an order to "halt" was shouted and that Tarrants whirled and fired twice in their direction.

Scarbrough, a veteran of 20 years on the police force, did not testify at Tarrants' trial. In an interview, he said that when the trial was held, "It was the only time I got a paid vacation from the city." "They didn't want you around for the trial?" he was asked. "Obviously not," he replied. Scarbrough said he shouted the order to "halt," then saw "two flashes - he (Tarrants) shot twice."

Scarbrough, Willoughby, McNair and another officer opened fire from an embankment 35 or 40 feet from Tarrants. Scarbrough said Tarrants was still holding the dynamite, but dropped it on the driveway.

Although hit and badly wounded, Tarrants managed to get back to the car. Police said Kathy Ainsworth was killed when she leaned over to open the door for Tarrants and a bullet struck her spine.

Tarrants sped off in his bullet-riddled car but crashed less than a mile away. He jumped from his car, as a pursuing patrol car pulled up, according to police, and opened fire with a machine gun, hitting officer Mike Hatcher in the heart and also seriously wounding a sailor who stepped out on a porch of a nearby house.

Tarrants then dropped the machine gun and ran behind a house, where pursuing officers opened up on him at close range with shotguns. In an interview, Sgt. L.D. Joyner, who has been given community awards and honored by the International Assn. of Chiefs of Police for playing a leading role in springing the trap, said he and three other officers chased Tarrant behind the house. Joyner said they saw Tarrants try to climb a fence, hit an electrically charged top strand, and dive into a clump of bushes.

"We figured he still had the machine gun and a hand grenade," Joyner said, "and we opened up on him. All four of us were firing shotguns from about 15 feet away. We had in mind killing him, I don't mind telling you. We dragged him out of the bushes and figured he was dead, but the son of a gun was still alive."

Joyner said that by the time the officers dragged Tarrants into the yard, a crowd of neighbors had gathered around them.

"We knew we had to stop them," Joyner said of the encounter with the Klansmen. "We knew they were planning to bomb synagogues with people in them. We had no intentions of losing the shootout with them."

Joyner confirmed that the police harassed Klan members, explaining, "We harass 'em all, that's our job."

"They're in constant fear we got somebody let up now," Joyner said. "We keep 'em scared to death."

Joyner was interviewed jointly with officer Mike Hatcher, who returned to duty after having recovered from the bullet wound in the heart. Both officers agreed that fear of police was a factor in the Roberts brothers' decision to cooperate in arranging the trap.

Fear broke case

Hatcher said, "That's what broke the case - fear - not the money." Joyner agreed. "He (one of the informants) believed we were going to kill him," Joyner said. "We helped him believe it. We acted like we were going to do it."

On July 2, two days after the Meridian incident, Scarbrough filed a report saying the informants had contacted Sam Bowers (Imperial Wizard of the White Knights) in Laurel and "Bowers stated that he had lost a good soldier - Kathy Ainsworth. He stated that she was as good as Tarrants or anybody else he had." (Bowers, like Alton Wayne Roberts, is under a 10-year federal sentence in the Philadelphia lynching case.)

The Scarbrough report noted that the informants "were highly upset" because they did not get the $79,000, but he added, "I gave them $10,000 as we started to leave."

"Informants are unhappy at this point," the report continued, "and stated that they will not talk any more unless we keep our end of the bargain and for us not to contact them again unless we have the money. An offer of $150,000 was made for testimony and refused."

In an interview, Scarbrough said that Jewish informants had pledged to make $150,000 available for testimony linking Bowers to the terrorist attacks.

The receipt for the July 2 payment read: "Received this date from Luke Scarbrough, the sum of $10,000 for services rendered." It was signed, "Al Rosenberg," a pseudonym used by Raymond Roberts.

On July 10 Scarbrough paid out an additional $10,000-$8,000 to Raymond Roberts, who signed the receipt "Alfred Rosenberg," and $2,000 to the intermediary, who signed the receipt "James Overlough."

The FBI and the police were still using the Roberts brothers as informants at that time, but the two were becoming increasingly irritated because they had not been given the money they claimed they had been promised.

An Aug. 12 memo by Scarbrough noted that he persuaded the intermediary to talk with the informants in an effort to get them to testify in court against Bowers. But the memo continued, "Upon interviewing informers they were very hostile because we did not have the long-promised money for them. The former stated that he was going to call the Jews and also that if he were Meyer Davidson he would get his money and go back to Israel."

"After talking with Roy Moore, Scarbrough wrote, 'he (Moore) decided each informer should be paid $10,000 for testimony and if they were not agreeable to this there would be no further money paid to them.'"

The intermediary also became upset and on Aug. 27 Scarbrough wrote that "he wanted his money and felt that he had been doublecrossed."

Although the intermediary never received another payment, three Jewish businessmen from Jackson drove to Meridian and gave the Roberts brothers $17,500 as a final payment, according to Scarbrough.

In November, 1968, Tarrants pleaded innocent by reason of insanity, but a Lauderdale County jury in Meridian found him guilty of the charge of placing a bomb. Sentence to 30 years, he appealed the case to the Mississippi Supreme Court.

Several days ago Tarrants, who is confined to the state prison at parchman, wrote a letter to the State Supreme Court asking that his appeal be withdrawn and that his attorneys, Roy Pitts of Meridian and Thomas M. Haas of Mobile, be dismissed. The attorneys told the court that the appeal should not be withdrawn, that they should not be dismissed, and that the court should not consider the request of an "insane man." The court has the matter under consideration.

Meanwhile, Joe Danny Hawkins remains free in Jackson, but his activities are under intensive investigation. Since the Meridian incident, he has been arrested and tried twice—once on charges of bombing a Jackson real estate office and once on charges of robbing a Memphis bank. The Jackson trial resulted in an acquittal, the Memphis trial in a hung jury and mistrial.

Still Live There

The Roberts brothers still live in Meridian, where they sometimes lead an anxious life. When Tarrants escaped from Parchman last July 23, Raymond Roberts frantically called the Meridian police for protection. (Tarrants was recaptured two days later.) Roberts lives in a house surrounded by a high chain-link fence and well-illuminated at night by several bright outside lights. A huge sign on the gate warns: "Beware of Dog." The fence was erected about two months after the Meridian incident when Roberts began to get nervous about his role as an informant.

The police and the FBI had cautioned the Roberts brothers not to immediately spend much of the money they had been paid. ("Well, we preached to the informants day and night not to do it," Scarborough said.) But Raymond bought a Thunderbird and Alton Wayne bought a Cadillac, which made other klansmen more than a little suspicious.

On September 24th, Joe Kum Yung was shot in Haining St., Wellington's "China Town", notorious for its gambling and opium dens.

Terry picked his victim carefully. Although convinced that only a dramatic incident could awaken New Zealand, he was not the homicidal madman, bent on killing a Chinaman for the sake of it, that he was in some quarters made out to be.

The Chinese friends of Yung, when interviewed, showed little sympathy. The Chinese community had given Yung money so that he could return to China, only to be lost on gambling. It was their opinion that Yung would not have lived long anyway, and that sudden death may have been a blessing.

The police were completely baffled by the murder, but the following morning Terry calmly walked into Lambton Quay Police Station, handed over his revolver and a copy of "The Shadow", and said to the duty constable: "I have come to tell you that I am the man who shot the Chinaman in the Chinese quarters of this city last evening. I take an interest in alien immigration and took this means of bringing it under public notice."

On the day of the incident he had sent a letter to Lord Plunket, the Governor, which read: "Having spent several years in various parts of the British Empire inquiring into the subject of the results arising from alien immigration, and being convinced of the evil consequences arising therefrom, I have decided to bring the matter before the public eye in a manner which will compel the attention it demands. I will not, under any circumstances, whatever, allow my rights and those of my fellow Britons to be jeopardised by alien invaders and to make this decision perfectly plain, I have this evening put a Chinaman to death in the Chinese quarters of this city known as Haining Street."

Trial

Terry declined to give evidence on oath at his trial, but read a statement to the jury. He declared his objection to the King "being placed in a position of a protector of unnaturalized race aliens in a British possession."

"It may, perhaps, be necessary, in order that my action not be popularly supposed to be the brutal and callous murder which some newspapers may have described it, to state that I bore no enmity against the deceased but, on the contrary, I sincerely pity all those poor people, whose presence in this country is partly the result of a vicious slave system in China...My action was the result of careful deliberation and was impelled by merciful considerations for all concerned. In choosing as an example an old and crippled man, I realized that my purpose would be accomplished without the sacrifice of one whose existence was other than a painful burden..."

Terry stated that the "murder was committed for the purpose of testing the stability of the law relating to the protection of aliens." He then set forth, as the basis for this, three principles:

(1) "That whereas the British law is the law of a nation constituting a portion of the white race, and whereas the laws of all races are moulded according to the different characteristics of their respective nationalities, all of which vary materially one from another. Therefore, inasmuch as it is naturally impossible for the people of two distinct races to possess the same characteristics, so therefore it must be equally impossible for the laws of the people of one race to be beneficially control and govern those of another."

(2) "And as the laws of a nation representing a portion of one race cannot be applied to people forming a portion of another race, therefore it must necessarily be unlawful for people of two or more distinct races to dwell together in the same country."

(3) "Therefore, there can be no law which accords protection to or in any way recognizes the presence of or refers to unnaturalized race aliens in British possessions, and my reply to the charge that I killed this alien contrary to the form of the statute in such case made and being a race alien, was not a man within the meaning of the form of the statute in such case made and provided."

"In concluding my statement, I wish to express the hope that the decision of this case may not take the form of half measure. Such methods of dealing with important cases are cowardly, and are usually productive of infinitely more harm than good. If I am held to be right I claim my freedom. If I am held to be wrong, I shall have failed in my purpose, and I demand the full penalty of the alleged law. Any effort to evade responsibility, under the pretence of dealing leniently with me or for any other reason whatever, shall be proof that the law is an unjust and iniquitous law, inasmuch as it cannot be put into execution."

Of course Terry's racial principles did not hold with the court. As the Chief Justice pronounced the death sentence a press account described Terry as "clear-eyed and erect, he looked more like a knight-errant borrowed from the pages of chivalry than a criminal."

A petition for the commutation of the death sentence was circulated throughout New Zealand, gaining thousands of signatures. Although describing Terry as a man of high character the strategy of his well-meaning petitioners was the same as that of the friendly witnesses at his trial, in wishing to see Terry escape the death penalty, despite Terry's own uncompromising stand, that is, that he had been suffering from insanity at the time of the murder.

However, the government had already decided to commute the sentence to life imprisonment.

Committed

On February 24, 1906 a passenger on the inter-island steamer, the Rotomahana, found a small piece of paper in his cabin, between the ceiling and a water pipe. The note read: "I occupied this cabin on my way from Wellington gaol to Lyttelton gaol - not in very good health owing to having been kept in solitary confinement in Wellington for nearly six months, with very little exercise. I suspect an attempt to impair my mental faculties in order to form an excuse for placing me in a lunatic asylum." (signed) Lionel Terry.

Terry's suspicions were right. Shortly after imprisonment Terry was certified insane by a magistrate on the advice of two doctors. Reasons included his opposition to race-mixing. Over the years Terry made a number of daring escapes from Sunnyside and Seacliff.

For several years Terry was on very good terms with Seacliff's medical superintendent, Dr. Truby King (of Plunket Society fame) and was often invited to dine with him.

In 1916, when a group of medical students from Otago University stayed at Seacliff for a course in psychiatry, Dr. Doris Gordon later recollected in her book "Back Blocks Baby Doctor":

"Truby King permitted Terry to lecture us. With the superintendent as chairman, and a few attendants hovering in the wings, Terry would propound his brilliant hypotheses; by the time he finished most of the hypnotized students were wondering who should be labelled lunatic and who custodian!"

was a prolific writer of poetry and painter. He continued to take an interest in international affairs and maintained that history would prove him right about the 'Yellow Peril'. He maintained that Japanese expansion in the Pacific during the war proved him partly right, and that the menace of Red China would eventually prove him entirely right.

On August 15, 1952 Terry suffered the first of a series of strokes, and died peacefully on August 20.

"Oh Gwadi send us an honest Guide!"
The canting wasters cried
He came, and lo they called him mad,
And buried him alive!
Then fell the awful wrath of GOD,

And all those traitors died.
And now, in the ungodly land,
Ten million Mongols thrive.

I am a man, I hold the right,
To follow Reason's Light;
And I will strive with all my might,

To keep my country WHITE.

The American Laborer Has No Chance to Win in the Unequal Battle With Asiatic Foes.

In World War II, our Chinese allies were issued Thompsons. Later, in Vietnam, these very same guns were used against our troops.

those things, which the Jewish imperialists allow the Gentiles to know, but hide, minimize and even misguide the Gentile reader on those affairs which Judaism considers to be POLITICAL SECRETS which MUST BE HIDDEN from the Gentile readers. This is why it is not strange that such encyclopedias and books when speaking of the very ancient Chinese Judaism, usually only talk about the communities that have operated publicly, mainly those of Kai-Fung-Foo city. About this community they give much information which is highly interesting; saying that it flourished in other times but is today in painful decadence. The JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA, in addition to mentioning the Kai-Fung-Foo community also says that Catholic missionaries of the Seventeenth Century found other public Jewish communities in Hangchao-Foo and OTHER CHINESE TOWNS without expressly saying how many of them they found. The ENCYCLOPEDIA adds that the attention of the Jewish historians has been concentrated mainly in the community of Kai-Fung-Foo, and not on others because of the archeological relics found in the old Synagogue, comprising marble tablets engraved in the Chinese language which help clarify several unknown aspects of the history of Chinese Judaism. These marble tablets are dated 1489, 1512 and 1663 respectively. That of 1489, referring to the Jewish immigration, states: "Seventy families came from the West offering Emperor tributes of cotton clothes; he allowed them to settle down in Peen-Lang, this is, Kai-Fung-Foo. In 1163, the Synagogue was built by a certain Yen-too-la, and in 1279 it was reconstructed to a great scale. In 1390, Tai-tsou, founder of the Ming dynasty, gave these Jews lands and additional privileges. In 1421 the Emperor allowed a Jewish physician, highly honored by him, to repair the Synagogue"... The JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA gives further information regarding the engravings found in these archeological monuments. Among them there is an engraving mentioning the Chinese Jews that reads: "They are outstanding in agriculture, commerce, in public positions (magistracy) and in the art of war" (Army). In fact, it can be seen that Chinese Jews have stood out in trade, as the Jews have in other countries, and had achieved leading positions in government, as the Jews have in the Gentile nations. But it seems to be a special characteristic of Chinese Judaism, as many Jewish historians have said— and also these archeological monuments confirm— that Chinese Jews Tiao-Kiu-Kiaou were experts in agriculture. This has allowed them to infiltrate among the peasants, just as their great military talents have also allowed their infiltration in the army, creating a fifth column of Jewish Imperialism infiltrated at all levels in China.

The JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA says that the Jew Chao-Yng-Cheng was Mandarin of the Chen-Si province, that is to say he was the Governor of that Province—clear evidence of Jewish infiltration into the highest positions of the Chinese government.

The JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA, referring to the Chinese Jews of Kai-Fung-Foo, also says that many of them: "emigrated— during the war between the Chinese and Tartars— to Kiang-su, Arnoy and Peking; but they do not have synagogues in those places, and that some Jews with English protection, went to Shanghai and HongKong, where they practiced the traffic of opium and cotton."

This information provided by the JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA, a Jewish document of unquestionable value, makes us see that the opium traffic, which led to the criminal war fought by the British Government against China, not only benefited British and Indian Jews, but also the Chinese Jews Tiao-Kiu-Kiaou, who also participated in the opium traffic in Shanghai and Hong Kong under the protection of the British government, which as we all know was already a satellite under the control of Jewish Super-Imperialism. Under Jewish control, the British government even sent— betraying the ideals of democracy— its own people to fight and die to protect and expand the Jewish opium trade, so that the Jews might make a profit out of poisoning the Chinese people, and Chinese Jews participated in this trade at the expense of their Chinese hosts.

As Indian Jews and other Jewish communities of the Afro-Asian world were somewhat behind Western Judaism regarding the progress of their religious institutions and internal policies, Western Judaism, during the XIX Century, started a program to adopt the Secret Jewish societies in Africa, East and Southern Asia to the advances of European and American Judaism, not only regarding changes in the Jewish religious and social institutions but also with regard to new techniques of infiltration and political control over the Gentile nations, including revolutionary techniques intended to accelerate their domination. The revolutionary potential of the Afro-Asian Jewish communities began to develop progressively during the XIX Century, as Western Judaism sent experienced leaders to train them in all aspects in which they were backward in regard to Western Judaism. Regarding the Chinese Judaism and the Kai-Fung-Foo community, the JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA reports that the Western Jews formed a special organization called the SOCIETY FOR RESCUING THE CHINESE JEWS, whose task was the revival of the Jewish religion among those Chinese Jews. The JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA adds that the Jews of Shanghai cooperated with this society.

According to the Jewish encyclopedias, the formerly flourishing Jewish community of Kai-Fung-Foo, fell into a painful decadence, diminishing the number of its members to the point that they had to sell their temple. We, as experienced researchers of the history of clandestine Judaism, find and can prove that every time Jewish historians talk about decadence or disappearance of a Jewish community in books, as Gentiles are allowed to read, (such as encyclopedias and other writings) in most cases for there are a few exceptions as is natural— what really happens when there is a mass desertion from public Judaism, the majority of the DESERTERS are just pretending to abandon Judaism in favor of a Gentile religion— while secretly remaining loyal to the Jewish community and religion. In other words, they merely transfer from Public Judaism to Clandestine Judaism.

Chavennes, the Orientalist, talks about another Jewish colony established in China between 960 and 1126, composed by Jews that came from India. The Jewish historian, Elkan Nathan Adler, also mentions another Jewish penetration into China, coming from Bokhara through Persia in the XVI Century. The first immigrants, according to the CASTILIAN JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA, settled down in several Chinese areas.

Since 1840 China has experienced further migrations of Jews from different countries, mainly European. According to the CASTILIAN JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA the opening of the so-called "Ports of Treaty" in 1840, brought a number of English Jews to China from Hong Kong and India. In 1850, Elias David Sassoon, a rich Jewish trader settled in Bombay, India, established a branch of his firm in Shanghai. Born in Bagdad, his father had been Treasurer and banker to the Turkish Governor in that city. Referring to Elias David Sassoon, the CASTILIAN JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA says that "he specialized in the trade of opium, among other things" and that when he established his branch in Shanghai, he was followed by the Kadoorie, great Jewish capitalists in Bagdad, and their big enterprises— the Sassoons and Kadoorie's— built a synagogue in Shanghai, founding a new Jewish community which until 1905, was mainly Sephardic. So this new Jewish community had the honor of being founded by the enterprise of a great international Jewish opium dealer, whose son, as millionaire as him, used the Moslem name of Abdula when in Bagdad, and used the Christian name of Albert while in London. His Jewish name, the good one always, was David. About this great international capitalist, the CASTILIAN JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA says, "Sassoon, Albert (Abdula David) industrialist, banker and philanthropist. Born in Bagdad in 1817, died in Brighton, England in 1897. Eldest son of David Sassoon and head of commercial and industrial enterprises of the family. He founded one of the biggest textile factories in Bombay, India, donated a great modern dam to the city and established several schools. Member of the Legislative Council from 1867 to 1871 and one of the most outstanding people in the society of Bombay. He frequented the Kings of England and his audience with the Persian Shah in 1869 was one of the events of the English capital. He was ennobled in 1872."

The Jews frequently received titles of nobility in England, especially since the long reign of Queen Victoria, to such an extent that investigators have shown that most of the titles of Earl, Marquis, Viscount and Lord are presently in the hands of Jewish ennobled families or of ancient aristocratic English families linked with Jewish families. Dukedoms have been Judaized by means of marriages of Jewesses and ancient Dukes, and those Jewesses, with the help of the powerful Jewish communities, have secretly initiated in Judaism the eldest son of that marriage, this is to say, the new Duke. It is not strange, then, that the international Judaism is not in a hurry to overthrow the English monarchy, which is controlled by the Jewish imperialism.

The Russian-Japanese war and the persecutions it originated against the Jews, the failed communist revolt in Russia in 1905, that the Imperial Russian government justly imputed to the Jews, brought as a consequence the arrival in China of fugitive Russian Jews. In 1917 Russian Jews arrived to Jarbin and Mukden in Manchuria were antagonized by White Russians who accused the Russian Jews in the country of being originators of the Red Terror in Russia. During the Japanese invasion of China in 1931, many Russian Jews living in China, who were fleeing from the Japanese (who accused them of being communists), were forced to move to Tientsin, Hankow and Shanghai, where they were reinforced by new immigrations of Polish and Roumanian Jews. In 1928 a community of Ashkenazim Jews joined with the Sephardic community under the auspices of the lodge recently formed in Shanghai, of the secret order of world Jewish Masonry called B'nai B'rith, which was in this way starting to extend its tentacles into China. It must be remembered that the self-government enjoyed by the Jewish communities throughout the world, and the ambitions of its leaders to command economic and political power, sometimes provoke deep rivalries between different Jewish communities; some of these remain the secret of the Jews, but others spread scandalously outside. One of the secret goals for which the Jewish Super-Masonry, the B'nai B'rith, was created, was to conciliate rivalries and disagreements and promote harmony and reunification, as it infiltrates among the various Jewish communities possessing different rites. The B'nai B'rith achieved this objective of unification regarding the Jewish Ashkenazim and Sephardic communities of Shanghai.

A new Jewish immigration into China started in 1933; Jews fled Germany and Austria harassed by the Nazis. According to the CASTILIAN JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA the new Jewish migrants of German origin obtained positions in the administration of the Republic of China. Among them the distinguished Jew, Dr. Bernhard Weiss, who had been Vice President of the Police in Berlin, was entrusted with the reorganization of the Chinese police by Chiang Kai-shek's government. The CASTILIAN JEWISH ENCYCLOPEDIA adds: "Many German officers of Jewish origin enlisted in Chiang Kai-shek's army. Miriam Karnes, who died during the bombing of Nanking, founded a famous battalion of Chinese women. Gen. Moshe Cohen helped organize the supplying of food, arms and equipment of the armed forces. Other Jewish refugees served in the nationalist rows as doctors and nurses. But the great amount of German Jews reached China ONLY AFTER THE MOURNFUL YEAR OF 1938 that brought the annexation of Austria and the Sudetes."

In 1940, the B'nai B'rith in China was led by an English Jew called Mendel Brown.

Judaism projects to control all kinds of governments—monarchist, democratic or communist—but it is an unacceptable tragedy for the Jewish nation (which uses communism to impose its totalitarian domination to mankind), that socialist or communist states should fall and survive in the hands of Gentile rulers, and it will not rest until it has overthrown all Gentile governments, even those that are socialist or communist—either existing now or that may appear in the future—to replace them with governments controlled by the insatiable imperialism of international Judaism.

The Soviet Union is the strongest bulwark of Judaism in the communist camp, due to the high proportion of Jews among the Russian, Ukrainian and other populations of the Soviet Union. Millions of Soviet Jews that control the Party, the Army, the secret police and other repressive organs, keeping the power by themselves, without need of foreign help. So complete is the power in the Soviet Union that it is possible for them to help support their Jewish brethren in the government of other communist countries where they cannot achieve this by themselves.

It is interesting to note that in all nations where the percentage of Jews is small, in relation to the genuine population of these countries, there is a high rate of mixed marriages between public Jews and the real members of those nations. This question is highly important, because in such cases the Jewish imperialists try, by different means, to increase the number of Jews in those countries to facilitate their conquest and then to maintain control by their own forces.

Thus the Jews increase their Jewish population in a country by promoting mixed marriages between Jewesses and natives of the country they attempt to conquer.

The Nazis, dealing with the Jewish problem, mainly as a racial problem, committed a serious mistake when they considered as Germans, the descendants of three German grand-parents and only one Jewish grand-father. It is evident that from a superficial racial point of view, such children were predominantly German, but the Jewish problem is not only racial but something much more complex, as the reader may have attested; in fact, as the Tribunal of the Holy Inquisition said, it was enough to have only one Jewish grand-mother, or even only a Jewish great-grand-mother, or even only one great-great-grandmother, for the descendant to be admitted to the Jewish secret societies. And all this because of the reasons we have mentioned. This is why the laws that ruled Inquisitorial Europe and later Spain and Portugal were JUSTIFIED; they considered as "new christians" and therefore as suspects of Judaism, anyone who two or more centuries back had only ONE Jewish antecessor, and excluded such people from positions in the government in the army and the church, even when there was not enough evidence (which was difficult to obtain) that they practiced Judaism in secret. This legislation lasted until the Inquisitorial regime was suppressed.

In China, as in other countries, communities of Ashkenazim, Sephardic, Arab, Indian, Russian, German and Roumanian and other Jews have authorized since their arrival in China, mixed marriages with Gentile Chinese; children with partially Chinese features come from these marriages, who after getting married with other Gentile persons of the country, had children with more Chinese than Jewish appearance. Later, mixed marriages have increased the number of fifth columnist Jews, whose racial appearance is Chinese, but who in secret are members of the nation of Israel, increasing in this way the clandestine Jewish fifth column. Although we believe that the Chinese population resulting from these mixed marriages may still be small, it would be an important investigation to calculate the number of clandestine Jews in China.

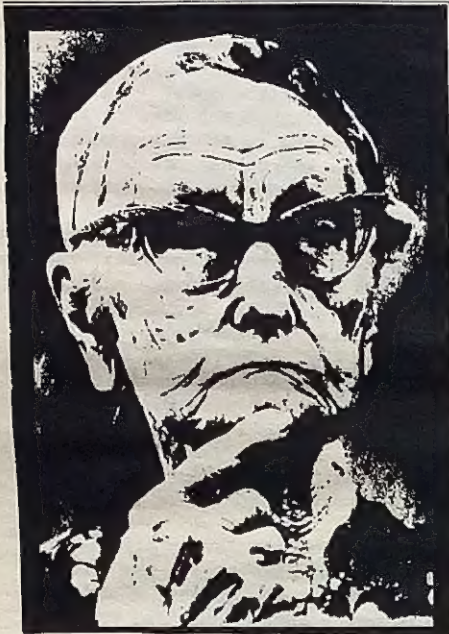

During the Inquisition and World War II, members of the Jewish clandestine Fraternities infiltrated into those regimes, taking skillful steps to prevent their meetings and operations from being discovered, Judaism has centenary experience in this.

These public or clandestine Jews pretend to be enemies of the Soviet Union and its satellite communist parties, infiltrate and obtain leading positions and little by little gain control over many organizations of different countries. Judaism will win if it succeeds in taking over such parties and organizations throughout the world.

ARE OUR LEADERS AWARE OF THIS? I'M sure they know, but will never educate the public of this deadly integration travesty.

There is a plan afoot to exchange America's public lands as payment for the national debt.

Hardly a month goes by that another "balloon" doesn't show up in a newspaper in some part of the country making this suggestion. This is the way the system prepares the people to accept the formal demand.

This solution to the "national debt" is nothing new. It was done as long ago as Rome.

Rome adopted the Greek banking system. The Greeks got theirs from the Persians. The Persians got theirs intact from the Babylonians. In effect, the Romans used the Babylonian monetary system.

The Babylonian monetary system is simpler. It is the one we use today. The usurer lends 10 for 11. This creates a situation where there is always more money owed than exists. Someone is always being forced to go bankrupt and give up his collateral to the lender. This is why the system is so popular.

Rome's top generals had to be wealthy men. They would rent a Roman army to make their conquests. After defeating an enemy they were allowed to exploit the conquered peoples for 5 years. After that both the land and conquered people reverted to Rome. As a consequence, Rome's holdings of public land grew and grew.

These lush public lands consisted of forfeited estates and businesses. They comprised a large part of the total Roman holdings on the Italian peninsula and the island of Sicily. This was the plum that the lenders wanted.

GENEROUS COMPENSATION

(BBM 3/8/1985)

TEL AVIV (ZINS)—As provided for in the Camp David Accord, Israel agreed to evacuate all Jewish settlements in the Sinai Peninsula. The weekly Asakim writes that the abandonment of homes in the Sinai was regarded, at first, as a severe blow to the settlers. However, those who were involved in the liquidation of the 11 Sinai settlements did not leave their homes empty-handed; not by a long shot! According to the editors of Asakim, quoting a reliable government document to which they gained access, these were the compensations paid to the families who were obliged to resettle elsewhere. Every one of the 51 families in the Moshav Ogadah received as compensation the sum of $433,000. The 40 families of moshav Dikla each received $558,000. Each of the 8 families in the moshav Zahron were paid $358,000. All of the 19 families in Naot-Sinai received $445,000. The largest compensation was received by the 63 families in moshav Sadot—$650,000 to each and every family. All in all the total paid out in compensation to this relatively small number of settlers in the Sinai aggregated a sum in excess of one hundred eighty million dollars.

U.S. Military and Economic Aid to Israel

"The basis of all slavery and all slavish thought is necessarily the monopoly of the means of working, that is of living. If the state monopolized them, not the state ruled by the propertied classes, but the state ruled by the whole people, to work would become every man's right. Nineteen out of twenty laws would be useless (i.e. unnecessary)."

"Surely we are all tainted and corrupted, even the best of us, by the scrofulous cowardice, the fearsome selfishness, of a decaying civilization! Surely we are only fit to be less than human, to be slave to conditions that we ourselves might govern if we would, to be criminal accomplices in the sins of social castes, to be sad victims of inhuman laws or still sadder defenders of inhumanity! Oh, for the days when our race was young, when its women slew themselves rather than be shamed and when its men, trampling a rotten empire down, feared neither God, nor man and held each other brother and hated, each one, the tyrant as the common foe of all! Better the days when from the forests and the steppes our forefathers burst, half-naked and free, communists and conquerors, a fierce avalanche of daring men and lusty women who beat and battered Rome down like Odin's hammer that they were! Alas, for the heathen virtues and the wild pagan fury for freedom and for the passion and purity that Frega taught the daughters of the barbarians! And alas, for the sword that swung unscathed by each man's side and for the knee that never bent to any, and for the fearless eyes that watched unblenched, while the gods lamed each other with their lightnings in the thunder-shaken storm! Gone forever seems the days when the land was for all, and the cattle and the fruits of the field, and when unruly by kings, untrammelled by priests, untrammelled by the pretence of law, our fathers drank in from Nature's breasts the strength and vigour that gave it even to this little babe to fight its hopeless fight for life so bravely and so long. Odin was dead whose sons dared go to hell with their own people and Frega was no more, whose magic filled the molten fire and veins of all true lovers and nerved with desperate courage the hand of her who guarded the purity of her body and the happiness of our child. The White Christ had come when wealth and riches and conquests had heaped wrongs on the head of the wrongers; the cross had triumphed over the hammer when the fierce freedom of the North had worn itself out in selfish foray; the shaven-pated priests had come to teach patience as God-given when a robber-caste grew up to whom it seemed wise to uproot the old ideas from the mind of the people whose spent courage it had robbed. Alas for the days when it was not righteous to submit to wrong nor wicked to strike tyranny to the ground when one met it, no matter where! Alas for the men of the Past and the women, their faith and their courage and their virtue and their gods, the hearts large to feel and the brains prompt to think and the arms strong to do!"

Refugees Borrow $183 Million From Uncle Sam — But You Are Stuck With the Bill

Foot-dragging bureaucrats aren't moving to collect loans that the United States made to help refugees resettle here — and American taxpayers have been left holding the bag for a whopping $183 million, according to a new government report.

Since the mid-1970s, the State Department has helped pay the relocation costs for more than 900,000 refugees, who signed agreements to repay these no-interest loans.

But "most refugees do not pay back the loans," according to the report by the General Accounting Office.

In fact, of over $227 million loaned to refugees since the program began, only $44 million — or about 20 percent — has been repaid.

The program is supposed to largely support itself — but since the refugees aren't repaying their loans, it's costing the government $30 million a year to keep the program going.

"These low repayment rates have resulted primarily from lack of enforcement," said the report.

In many cases, for example, the government's collection agencies can't bill refugees for their loans because they don't have their current address.

But in other cases, refugees have outright refused to pay off their loans when they are finally tracked down.

Sid Taylor, research director for the National Taxpayers Union, fumed:

"If American banks or businesses ran their affairs in such a lackadaisical way, they would soon be bankrupt."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

To W.A.R. Editor:

We've nudged and dug Mainers about "missing children" with the possible connection of Ritual Murder, for a number of "Your Maine Independent Informer's" and Letters to the Editors of Maine, hoping to goad our feeble voice (which none-the-less goes out nation-wide) was the reason, or was only a granule in the sandbag towards this admission... "Bangor Daily News" of June 12th, ran a story showing bureaucracy is having to reckon with the undertow they created, such as answering questions and bringing more attention to the huge amounts claimed - now disclaimed - and how self-created whirlpools were threatening to drown these exaggerators in their own propaganda. Anyone using rationale knows there couldn't be thousands of children missing through foul play EVERY month - how many have you personally read of in your area - and that is something that normal parents would not keep hushed up - oh, yes... in the cities many children who become driftwood on humanity's shores, are destroyed by the deluge of sick-minded, former humanity dredged up from the gutter of sexual perversion, which even here in our Maine, Senators wanted to assist by condoning homosexuality - the bill being defeated for the fifth time. Homosexuality - one of the wayside stops toward moral, mental and physical degeneracy. But these children of every very large city have been an inheritance predating the 1900's - nothing new.

If then, there are no monstrous and sudden abnormalities of children missing from loving homes... why has our media created this fantasy - and with it, ever escalating costly bureaucracies to deal with this "problem"? Is it just another business venture like selling family finger-print kits? Or I.D. photography? Or is it another method for officials to tighten up the controls through which to identify future citizens? Is it a method to destroy family unity? To create a generation of insecure citizenry dependent on "Big Brother" for everything, including thoughts? Who is it in gov't that the controlled media collaborates with? Who pays for the nation-wide network of "Hot-lines", and agencies coordinating the "search" for these "missing children"? Why was the focus of TV's 20-20 brought to bear on the whole spectrum of Missing Children - Satanism - Ritual Murder? Was it to create more fear, or were they also trying to force answers to these things? Or is all this a red-herring to draw our attention away from something else? Fear vanishes with knowledge - facing it - it is fear of the unknown that terrifies, and that fear is what is destroying children and families. Have the master illusionists who created this Jekyll and Hyde atmosphere in order to gain power, lost control of their Frankenstein, in "operation scare"?

We don't believe there are millions or hundreds of thousands missing, because as we asked before - where are the missing bodies? Thousands, yet - either in normal run-aways, white slavery, family upheavals and parental kidnappings...or yes, with courts releasing psychopathic maniacs - there are murder victims. Whether they are murdered for maniacal self-indulgence; ritual murder and/or Satanic cultism - some children are murdered. But there's been no way that that many could have been missing without bodies turning up all over the place. Why then has the mass media and those behind it resorted to hysterical terrorist tactics? FOR CONTROL!! Regular, systematically applied fright, creates false impressions which allow more and more control. Between Hot-lines, I.D. discs on teeth, pictures on milk cartons, shopping bags, bulletin boards, TV, thru-way tickets which create a needless anxiety, disturbing both children and adults and increasing suicide amongst children especially; between overprotection, or less physical attention due to parents fearing to touch their children because of possible exploitation charges; with children feeling the lack of warmth from parents, resulting in confusion building a distrust of parents; with created new laws taking more and more parental rights away, there has been what started as a snowball, now developing into an avalanche out of control. Have those in this fiendish plan, whether shadow government or mass media, now had to face the more uncontrollable hysteria they see headed their way, instead of their carefully cultured plan of "Big Brother" - 1984 control? Isn't it about time parents started using common sense and taking back the "control" they so unrealizing and trustingly turned over to the central government of state and nation? Isn't it time people started remembering we the people are government? The "Bangor Daily News" writer in his excellent story has Michael R. Petit of Maine's Dept. of Human Services stating his department and "other New England States, added up the total number of missing children in England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Portugal, Greece, Turkey, and the United States (not just Maine) and came up with 32." "Child Find, Inc., a national agency in New Paltz, N.Y., once used the 20,000 to 50,000 national estimate of stranger-abducted children. Now, the agency's estimate of kidnapped youngsters has been reduced to between 500 and 600, said Carolyn Zogg, Child Find's Assoc. Director", who has been paying for Child Find searcher's wages as they supposedly looked for 20,000 to 50,000 children when only 500-600 were now admittedly alleged missing? These lower figures are reassuring - but why was the situation allowed to start - and what are you parents and grandparents going to do about it? You sovereign (ruling) citizens mistakenly turned over too much control to your employees (government) which became a shadow gov't (not elected), and has been creating ritual murder on we the people by draining us of the spirit of life. Start using your common sense and stop being gullible. Exercise your parental rights.

Gentlemen,

I am one of the few Russian emigrants who had luck in slipping out of the Soviet Union on the pretext of an invitation from imagined relatives in Israel nine years ago.

I became deeply concerned about the causes of the catastrophe of the Russian state in 1917 and pretty soon upon my arrival I was able to find out about the leading role of the Russian (and international) Jews in the so called "Russian" revolution. I realized the fact that had been concealed from all of us (but not from the Jews, for they did know about it) in the USSR that all executive power in my country is controlled by the Jews.

Around 1980, listening to a short wave Russian language broadcast of the Voice of America that all of us were so accustomed to listen to while home, I heard the name of a professor of economy at the Moscow Institute of Foreign Languages and a lecturer at the State propaganda society "Znanie" (Knowledge) Mr. Valery Emelyanov. The Voice of America mentioned his name as the author of a book "Dezionization" which he published abroad without the authorities' permission.

According to the VoA the book was "anti-semitic". A few weeks after the book was published - went on the VoA - Emelyanov was kicked out of the Party, lost his job and later was said to have murdered his wife and even tried to burn her body. He was incarcerated in a psychiatric hospital for 10 years.

I was able to get a Russian language copy of Emelyanov's book and read it. It features some of the world's press reaction to it. For instance, there is an article from The New York Times by Irving Spiegel called "Jewish Leader Accuses..." Unfortunately, the date of the publication is cut off. I quote: The head of the 500,000 members of B'nai B'rith has sharply criticized a Soviet anti-semitic book as "preaching unbridled anti-Semitism" in his Government-sponsored activities.

"David" M. Blumberg, president of the organization, identified the Russian as Dr. Emelyanov of Moscow. In an interview last week at B'nai B'rith headquarters in Washington, Mr. Blumberg described him as the "Most outrageous big-lie specialist against Jews we've learned of in recent years."

The B'nai B'rith president said that Dr. Emelyanov was a member of the Znanie (Knowledge) society, an important Soviet agency which conducts public lectures in the Soviet Union. Mr. Blumberg charged that Mr. Emelyanov "has disputed Judaism as the source of monotheistic religion, castigated the Torah as the 'blackest book created in the entire history of mankind.'" The Jewish leader also said that the Soviet specialist has contended that "80% of the economy and 95% of the mass media in the capitalist world are Zionist-owned." Mr. Blumberg said that Dr. Emelyanov's activities were being exploited by the Palestine Liberation Organization. Mr. Blumberg said his organization had learned of Dr. Emelyanov's activities from Soviet Jewish dissidents and also from publications. He said that recent Soviet emigres had advised B'nai B'rith that propaganda lecturers "are a powerful source in the Soviet Union, much more believable to the audiences than the press." End quote.

I enclose the copies of articles on Dr. Emelyanov from Jerusalem Post, Jewish Currents, NY Times even though they are poorly readable.

I don't know if the book "Dezionization" is available in English. I understand it has been published in French and Arabic.

I think American readers of W.A.R. will be interested to know about Dr. Emelyanov's fate. Maybe you will be able to find out more about Dr. Emelyanov or help him somehow by reaching his mother who lives in Moscow at the following address: (Editor's note: enclosed are the addresses to this woman)

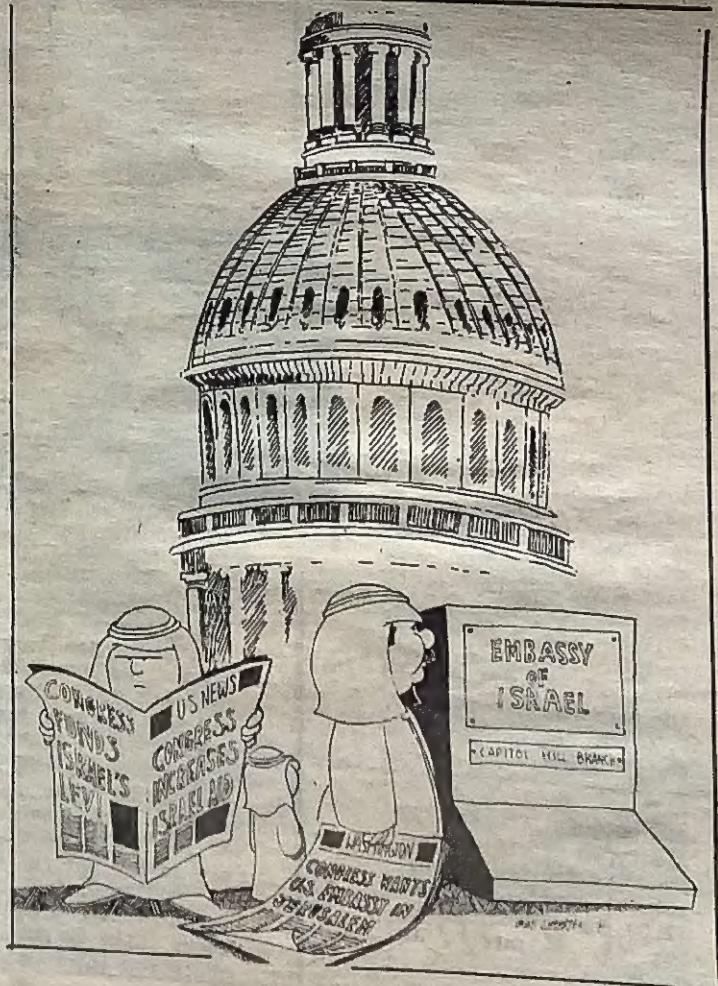

Respectfully yours, N.T.

AND PATRIOTIC AUSTRALIANS FIGHT ON!

...I tell you that highway robbery is only in its infancy, for the White population is been driven out of the labour market by an inundation of Mongolians, and when the White man is driven to desperation, there will be desperate times.
